> DESIGN AND MANUFACTURE

Our expertise lies in designing and manufacturing quality solutions. Whether you're looking for someone to design a new light from scratch, or already have a concept and need help with developing it into a fully functional, legal and manufacturable product, we can help.

Our team of mechanical, electrical and optical design engineers work together on projects for low volume speciality vehicles to large scale production. We handle the project from the initial planning and concept phase, through to development, prototyping, testing and type approvals, before heading into production.
